

The Centre for Contemporary Religion

Muslims in Europe— Is research in crisis?

Thursday 28 November, 14:15 – 16:00

Nobelparken, building 1481, room 231

Round table discussion between

- Jørgen Nielsen, Emeritus Professor of Contemporary European Islam at the Department of Theology and Religion, University of Birmingham, UK.
- Nadia Fadil, Associate Professor at the IMMRC (Interculturalism, Migration and Minorities Research Centre), University of Leuven, BE.
- Christian Suhr, Associate Professor at the Department of Anthropology, Aarhus University, DK.
- Moderator: Lene Kühle, Professor with special responsibilities at the Department of the Study of Religion, Aarhus University, DK.

Research on Muslims in Europe has developed over the last 40 years since the first awareness that some migrants were bringing their religion with them to Europe. But has research also advanced? Or is research caught in an understanding of the Muslim as a migrant even in the third generation or in images of Muslims as passive victims of policies of integration or counter-radicalization? Has research posed the right questions? Has the right methods been employed? Is research on Muslims in a crisis or is it as vital as ever? Come and join the discussion!

Questions please contact: Lene Kühle: lk@cas.au.dk

---

Everyone is welcome!